Assignment 03 | East/West

19 october - additional information

> The content of the assignment remains the same:

window and mirror
from West to East and East to West

> again choosing one of the following notions:

circle <> line
wide-angle <> tunnelvision matter <> object

> you can still make use of video, animation, text, photography > there is still a website, for the East/West assignment only, the content of the website will be:

> the proposals and sketches for this project > documentation of the final results

What has changed is the following:

> the work will be presented in the form of an interactive* projection > you will work in teams of three

* you interpret the term interactive according to your own ideas about interaction, as you have described in your answers to the question what is interactive media art?

About the projection:

> this projection will be either in a space, or on an object > when projecting in a space, think of which location would be interesting > when projecting, think of all the different types of surface you can project on:
- solid surfaces
- transparant surfaces
- fabric
- different textures (rough, smooth, regular, irregular for example) > when projecting think of scale:

you can project really large projections, but you can also project tiny, miniature projections > when projecting think of different projection shapes:

- a projection does not have to be rectangular, you can use masks in front of the lens to create projections in any shape.

The planning:

> October 20th, 22nd and 23rd - (I am away 22nd and 23rd) hands- on practical play with projectors, and technical lessons from Li Wei and Zhou Chun Yuan about how to practically realize some interactive ideas > October 26th - October 30th - you have dissertation class.
However I am totally available to discuss your ideas with you when you have time. Just send me a mail, or call me.
> November 2nd - presentations of all the ideas and sketches > November 3rd, 4th and 5th - work on your East/West projections. I will be available.
> November 6th - the final work has to be presented
